STANDARD OIL AND RAILWAYS

Special Session of the Grand Jury Ordered at Cleveland.

SECRET CONFERENCES HELD

Commissioner of Corporations Garfield, District Attorney Sullivan, a Railway Representative and Others Particlpate - Miscellaneous Intelli- 878. gence of the Buckeye State,

Cleveland, O., July 3.—An order for a grand jury.was issued by Judge Taylor of this district to investigate alleged charges of rebating and discrimination against the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern and other railroads in favor of the Standard Oil company. The jury is to convene July 9 and will follow up certain testimony developed during two recent sessions of the interstate commerce commission in this city. An important link in the preparations being made in connection with the special session of the federal grand jury came at a conference between James R. Garfield, commissioner of corporations, and United States District Attorney Sullivan. Neither Mr. Garfield nor Mr. Sullivan would discuss their conference. Mr. Garfield was closeted with the district attorney following a session behind closed doors between Sullivan and T. J. Jerome, general attorney for the Lake Shore railway. A number of the employes of the Lake Shore railway have been subpoensed to appear before the grand jury. There is little doubt but that the witnesses so far subpeenaed will be questioned particularly concerning shipments made by the Standard Oil company over the Lake

Commissioner Garfield said that the case of the government had been left entirely in the hands of District Attorney Sullivan. The commissioner was the guest of honor at a dinner given by his brother, Abram Garfield, at the Country club. He will spend the Fourth of July at the old Garfield residence at Mentor and will return to Washington Thursday.

Captain G. J. Grammer of Chicago, vice president of the Lake Shore railway, following conferences here, said: "As I have been subpoenaed as a witness before the jury I am not in a position to talk. I will be on hand Monday morning and will be ready to answer any and all questions at that time." Attorneys representing the Lake Shore railway were among those conferring with Grammer and Warren J. Appropriations Made at the Recent Session of Congress.

DEMOCRATS CRITICISE SAME

Preparations Made to Carry Into Effect the Provisions of the Meat Inspection Law-Panama Bonds Offered to the Public-New Public Buildings. Washington, D. C., July 3 .-- Representative Tawney (Rep.), chairman of the house committee on approprianight until the arrival of a battalion tions, has prepared a detailed statement concerning the appropriations for the next fiscal year beginning July 1, 1906, made by congress during the session just closed, in which he claims that the per capita cost of government in the United States, including federal and state is less than that in any European country. Mr. Tawney enters upon an analysis to show the various channels into which the total appropriation of $880,103,301 will be diverted. He begins by deducting $139,456,415 provided for the sinking fund, the Panama canal, etc., showing that the real appropriation for the conduct of the government for the fiscal year is $740,726,886. To meet this demand he estimates that the total revenues (customs, internal and postal) will be $781,573,364. In a statement made for the Democratic minority Representative Livingstone makes a comparison of the expenditures provided for by this congress, $880,183,301, with the expenditures of 1898, the first year of President McKinley's administration, when the figures were $528,735,079, a ditference of $351.448.222. Commenting on this showing he states: growth in appropriations sustains the contention that the Republican party stands for extravagance in public expenditures in order to use that extravagance as a cloak for their more objectionable purpose of maintaining a high protective tariff to favor the trust combinations of manufacturers of the country."

To carry into effect the meat inspection law, the civil service commission announced an examination of inspectors to be held on the 21st instant. The regulations under which the examinations are to be held do not require that the inspectors be veterinarians, but they must from experience be qualified to determine whether or not meat is sound, wholesome and fit salary is $1,000 per annum.

Arrangements are being made by just before final adjournment of congress. The measure provides for the acquisition of about 200 public buildings in various parts of the country. The sites for between 50 and 60 of the buildings to be erected already are owned by the government.

Mr. Herrman has written to President Dreyfus of the Pittsburg club, explaining that this is done in the interest of organized baseball, but that there is no question of the correctness of the decision awarding Phelps to Boston.

Guthrie, Okla, July 3 .-- A special from Purcell, I. T., states that intense excitement prevails there over the report that the negroes of Womack have armed themselves with the intention of shooting down members of the mob that lynched and burned Will Davis, a member of their race, for assauting the 14-year-old daughter of Ira Robertson, a farmer. Heavily armed posses of business men and farmers left Norman, Okla., Noble, Okla., and Purcell, I. T., for Womack. Three leaders of the mob of white men are declared to be marked for assassination, and further trouble of serious character is expected. Judge Dickerson of Chickashaw, has announced that he will immediately empanel a special grand jury to investigate the lynch-

A jury was secured in a short time and the court was informed that the counsel in the case had agreed eight counts of the indictments and that only a small amount of evidence two counts. The indictments charge the defendants with granting a rebate of $1 on every car of meat shipped from its plant in Kansas City. The defendants claim that the money was i paid for another purpose. The last two counts of the indictments charge that the employes of the packing company were carried by the railroad free of charge, because after purchasing tickets in the regular way they would be given receipts and later the amount would be returned by the railroad to Schwarzchild and Sulzberger and that this constituted a rebate. Predicts Cabinet's Downfall.

St. Petersburg, July 3.—Ivan Petrunkevitch, the veteran leader of the liberal movement, who has been prevented by ill health from taking a prominent part in the debates in the lower house of parliament, but who now is a factor of the greatest weight in the councils of the Constitutional Democratic party, in an interview frankly expressed his conviction that the downfall of the present cabinet has been decided and declared his fullest confidence that the coming of a responsible parliamentary ministry is at

RAISED THE RATES.

Legal Ruling of Importance to Frater nal Associations.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 3.-An important decision governing the question of raising the rates in the Catholic Mutual Benefit association was handed down by Justice White in the supreme court in the case of Michael Dowdall against the supreme council of the C. M. B. A. Mr. Dowdall brought suit to recover the amount of money paid into the treasury of the C. M. B. A. since January 1, 1904, in excess of the rate paid by him previous to that time, and upon this suit hinged the legality of the increase in the rates adopted by the supreme council at the 1903 convention, which was held in Pittsburg. Justice White, in his decision, holds that the high rates imposed upon the members of the C. M. B. A. at the 1903 convention are null and void on the ground that the certificate of insurance is a contract and that the rates announced in the certificate cannot be increased.

No Tidings of Missing Vessel.

New York, July 3.—No word has yet been received of the overdue steamer America of the Fabre line, which sailed from Marseilles and Naples with 110 passengers and a cargo of freight for New York. She was last reported when she left St. Michaels, in the Azores, on June 11. She is now 11 days overdue. The agent had no information to give relatives and friends of the America's passengers, who beseiged the company's office in this city.

In this condition the iron is as brittle as glass, and very little force is required to separate the nails from the network which holds them together.

They then have to undergo the process known as annealing. They are mixed up with hematite iron ore, which is in a powdered state, put into iron pots and placed in an annealing furnace, a sort of kiln. Here they remain for some days, care being taken to so regulate the heat to which they are subjected that the iron will not be remelted, but brought very nearly to that condition. The action of the raw iron ore upon the brittle casting is marvelous. After cooling it can be bent without risk of breaking, and it becomes a useful and serviceable article.

A WILDERNESS OF TREES.

Inaccessible Forests That Abound In Gnatemala.

Nearly all of the northern and eastern part of Guatemala is covered with a dense tropical forest, consisting of mabogany, different kinds of cedar, chicle and other hard woods. Along streams down which logs can be floated much of the mahogany has been cut, but as yet very little of the other woods have been marketed. This is especially true of the departments of Peten. Alta Verapaz and Izabal.

Most of the forests still belong to the government, and the usual method of securing the timber is by concession. by which a certain number of trees are cut at a given price per tree, or a stipulated sum is paid for the timber on a given tract. It is not an easy matter to get titles to large tracts of land in Guatemala, as it is discouraged by the government. These concessions are not usually granted for a longer period, than five years. Sometimes it is stipulated that if a certain number of trees are cut during that time they must be renewed.

The pine forests are limited, being in the mountainous country principally and inaccessible. Most of the lumber used comes from the United States, principally from California. The for ests of this country are generally so inaccessible that the railroad companies import nearly all their ties and even import coal, because it is difficult for them to get enough firewood.—New York Herald.

Marriage and Health.

Marriage is an institution highly conducive to the health of both husband and wife, says American Medicine. Statistics prove that among married men over twenty years of age and women over forty the mortality rate is far less than among those who remain single. Among the widowed and divorced the mortality is exceptionally great. Suicides among the unmarried are much more numerous than among the married. The matrimonial state promotes temperance in every form. Furthermore, the probable duration of life of a married man of thirty exceeds that of his unmarried brother by five years, and the wife may expect to live one year longer than a single weman

Parades, Contests and Fireworks Brought Out the Citizens in Former Years-Assembled at the River.

Massillon will have a quiet Fourth as far as any concerted action on the part of citizens is concerned. There will be no parades, no grand display of fire works in the evening, no races a; which old and young may shout maneuvers to draw the attention of the whole city.

Massillon's history and it is with pleasure and happy thoughts that some of these former occasions are recalled by those who took part. In years gone by Massillon's celebration of the Fourth was second to none. There were parades, specches, band concerts, during the entire day that made the event one long to be remembered and seldom wished for by those who unfortunately were the butt of many a joke. The compass is even more belpless the proceedings would fall flat. A captain will have his compass correct- ber of crows for which it is responsible because of the new seas in which he now sails and even because of the new cargo his compass needs correction.

As is the compass, so is also our conscience, that divine thing in us which loves the right and hates the wrong, and which, although men may mock and others be morally blind, still dares to proclaim whatever standard of truth it may contain. And like the compass, our conscience needs to be corrected up to date, for the conscience is not the law book, but the judge, and so we must furnish our conscience with the last edition of truth. None of us has any right to live in Massillon with a fifteenth century conscience. Nor do we tolerate cannibalistic propensities, even though the cannibal may be governed by his conscience. The christian world is fast revolting also against the industrial cannibal who swallows everything in sight. The proper education of our conscience is one of the great demands of the twentieth century.

Hard as the Party "Whip"—Members of Both Branches of Congress Have Arranged Lecturing Tours.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN. Washington, July 3.-[Special.]-Before congress returns to Washington again we will know whether the house in the Sixtieth congress will be controlled by the party that has been in the majority for a dozen years or whether the Democrats, who have been defeated in six successive campaigns have at last gained a victory. The Republicans are going into the campaign with their usual confidence, but they are no more sanguine than the Democrats, who say that the country is now ready for a change of parties. In the Desert.

Representative Lacey of Iowa will spend his vacation in the desert, or that part of the country known as the "desert" half a century ago. He says that there is no place in the world that is so bealthy as the great plains, where there is constant sunshine and pure air. A month of it will put more life in a man than a year at the seashore is the opinion of the Iowa representative.

The Busiest Man. Probably the busiest man of the session has been Representative Watson of Indiana. He is the Republican "whip," and his duties as such have exceeded those which have been assumed or made the duty of any "whip" since that quasi-official position was created. Watson has been seen at the White House day after day and sometimes twice a day. That afforded an opportunity to keep the Republican leaders in close touch with the president, also to inform the president as to what was being done in the house and especially the party programme from day to day. Watson has had to have frequent conferences with Speaker Cannon and other house leaders, and he has had a task in keeping a good working majority of the Republicans in Washington and in the house when they were wanted.

On the Lecture Circuit.

Three senators and at least two representatives will soon be on the lecture circuit. They are Senators Dolliver of Iowa, La Follette of Wisconsin and Tillman of South Carolina, Representatives Charles B. Landis of Indiana and Champ Clark of Missouri. It is also quite possible that General Grosvenor will do some lecturing during the season. All of these men will later take an active part in the politleal campaign, but they have all been anxiously waiting for the end of the session in order that they may fill engagements which bave been delayed by the extent of the session. New Man Wins.

The enactment of a naturalization law was due to the efforts of Representative Bonynge of Colorado, who is a comparatively new man in the house, serving his second term. He took the matter up because there had come under his personal observation abuses of the old laws. It was the kind of legislation to which a number of persons had objections, and the bill was fought! with a great deal of vigor. Bonyuge kept at it, however, and was finally

Rev. Dr. George F. Hall Plans a Church, University, Hotel and Stores, All In One Building, For Ambitious Young Folks-To Provide Good Society For Poor Workers.

Undiscouraged by the foreclosure proceedings against his Chicago-Texas Land and Lumber company, Dr. George F. Hall, pastor of the independent congregation which worships in the Bush Temple theater, promises to earry the enterprise to a successful issue and to build in Chicago a "Chrlstian temple" at a cost of $5,000,000. says a Chicago special dispatch to the

At his offices in the Security building Dr. Hall spoke enthusiastically and confidently of both propositions.

The "Christian temple" is to be an eighteen story skyscraper on the North Side in the vicinity of Lincoln park. Dr. Hall, who is the originator of the idea, has planned a complete Christian city under one roof. The main purpose is to provide good society for the working young men and women of Chicago who are now compelled to live in cheap rooms and are deprived of all social diversion.

Five floors of the temple are to be obtain their education at night, if at

In the building there will be 3,500 rooms, and each room will be rented to two young men or two young women at a rate, per individual, of $2.50 a week. The young people will have their clubs, lodges, societies, parties, etc., all under one roof.

The auditorium will be one of the most splendid in Chicago if Dr. Hall's plans are carried to fulfillment. It will so arranged that the stage will be in the center of the auditorium.

In the eighteen story temple there will be banquet halls, restaurants, laundries, rooms for servants and attendants, a bank, chapels, recreation rooms study rooms, etc. In fact, the young people need not go out of the temple to live a complete life.

Dr. Hall declared he was in New York recently and talked with a bonding firm, and was assured that the money with which to finance the Christian temple would be forthcoming whenever he decided to launch the enterprise.

The Arcadia assembly is a new Missouri enterprise, says the Missouri Farmers' Herald. Robertus Love is the organizer. Aug. 18 to 31 is the first annual encampment, and the summery section of the state, where the breezes blow ever from the southward, is to be the site. There are Chautauquas without number, but this Love affair is to be the Arcadia, which is entirely different. The assembly would be an Arcadia even though it was held at Hoboken or Kalamazoo. It will be more so at a place so beautiful and bonny as Arcadia. TRIBUTE TO WHITE.

Augustus Lukeman Says Architebture's Loss Is Stupendous.

A tribite to the late Stanford White as an architect and a man was recently paid in a statement given out by Augus'us Lukeman, the sculptor, who was Mr. White's intimate friend for fifteen years, says the New York Tribune. Mr. Lukeman is a director of the National Sculpture society and the associate in important sculptural works | Engines Stopped Only Twice on Trip of Augustus St. Gaudens and Daniel C. French. His statement follows in part:

"In the stress of excitement and the horror that seems to have overcome the art world no voice appears to be raised calling attention to the stupen dous loss that has befallen the country in the death of Stanford White, the architect. In one or two papers there have been editorials that have touched only lightly on the achievements of this great man, this great producer and genius that has passed away. But it will be a generation or two before such a commanding figure will again appear upon the horizon of the art world, and it will take many years before the influence of his genius will cease to inspire and stimulate the taste for the beautiful in life and art which he has left behind.

"A great deal has been said about the supposed 'pace that kills' quality of this man, but practically nothing of the refinement of his nature that is everywhere in evidence where he was commissioned to speak the final word of artistic beauty. The silence of the art world strikes me as though it were overwhelmed by its loss and, still stagdevoted to a university which will ac- gering under the blow, was not yet commodate 12,000 pupils who must sufficiently recovered to give expression to admiration of the wonderful qualities of the man.

"Mr. White was not only an artist, a great architect, if not the greatest of his age, but be had a generous spirit, which stimulated the interest of the allied art workers and the taste of the public to a higher standard of beauty. You will find his refined spirit guiding the hand of the sculptor and painter invariably in each example of his architecture, and I do not hesitate to say sent 12,000 at one time, and will be he has many times sunk his individuality as only a true artist could do in order to make a concrete, perfect production. This is exemplified by many examples of Mr. White's work.

"Mr. White created a more beautiful environment in their homes for many laymen. He beautified their lives and made them see there was something more in life than lust. He is responsible for the best examples of art treasures that are found in the homes of our so called refined millionaires."

POSITIVE BLOCK SYSTEM.

Burlington Railway's Plan to Insure Greater Safety For Passengers. All main lines of the Burlington railway, approximating 4,000 miles, are now operated under the positive block system. The last sections to be installed were between Kansas City and Council Bluffs and on certain of the lines west of the Missouri river. It was with considerable satisfaction that has storage capacity for five torpedoes. officials of the road recently made the announcement, as the work has been going on for some years. Under the positive block system of operating trains the sections between stations, averaging from six to eight miles in length, are designated as blocks. Telegraph operators are constantly on duty at all stations, handling trains under orders from the chief dispatcher. A train cannot enter a block until that block is reported clear by the operator. The result is that ac cidents are practically impossible.

The cost is much greater than under the old train order system, as may be seen from the fact that ten operators in addition to the large number already in the service are required for the 128 miles of road between Council Bluffs and St. Joseph. It is considered, however, that the increased safety to the Lounsbury in announcing the latter's road's patrons is worth many times the cost of the new system.

CATS AS SCARECROWS.

Jersey Woman Protects Her Cherries With Two Well Trained Pets.

Mrs. Basse of Middletown, N. J., has hit upon a novel plan of protecting her cherries from catbirds and robins, says a special from Redbark, N. J., to the New York Times. Some cherry growers have adopted the plan of covering the trees with mosquito netting. Mrs. Basse's plan is much easier and less expensive. She has trained her two cats. Tommy and Jim, to do the work. Every morning she takes a broom and, waving it at the cats, orders them up the cherry trees. The cats have become so well trained that they now run up the trees as soon as they see Mrs. Basse start for the broom. The broom is set against the tree to threatare working toward the restoration of en the cats if they come down. When the independence of men by inducing the broom is removed the cats take it as a signal to give up their day's vigil over eatherds and robins.

The plan has proved very successful. Not a bird comes near the tree as long as the cats are around.

EXPLOIT OF THE LAKE

Submarine Boat Traveled Over Three Hundred Miles Alone.

NOT ANY MISHAP ON THE CRUISER

From Norfolk to Atlantic Highlands, Once For the Crew to Watch Whales-New Craft Can Detach Heg Leaden Keel.

After persons ashore had begun to think hard about the Lake, a little submarine cruiser, and wonder whether she had succumbed to the severities of the trip up from Norfolk, the striped mast or flagpole of the diver was seen by an observer the other day about noon and soon afterward the latest production in submarines anchored off the steamship dock at Atlantic Highlands, N. J., says the New York Herald. She was built by the Lake Torpedo Boat company, and as she lay practically flush with the water she attracted general attention. Orders were for the Lake to stop at Atlantic City, and it was her failure to do so on account of bad weather that caused fears for her safety. She made the run from Norfolk, a distance of 325 miles, at a speed of more than seven knots. It is the longest continuous sea trip ever made by a submarine. She is driven by a gasoline engine of 250 horsepower and has auxiliaries for electric lights and other purposes of 130 additional horsepower. All the food eaten on board is cooked by electricity and the interior is brilliantly lighted.

During the long voyage up the coast the Lake was unaccompanied by any vessel and ventured into the open sea entirely alone. Captain G. M. Evans reported that although comparatively heavy weather was encountered, the run was accomplished without the slightest mishap, and said it undoubtedly marked the beginning of an advanced era in submarines. On board the Lake is a crew of eight men all told, who find plenty of room for their simple wants within the steek pod, which is built to withstand the pressure of the sea at a depth of 130 feet. Even when steaming on the surface her decks are submerged by the wash, so that the navigator handles the craft from the top of the conning tower; but when she settles beneath the surface and begins the duties for which she was constructed he steers from within the tower, whence, although several feet beneath the surface, he is enabled to sweep the horizon by means of a periscope or omniscope, which projects somewhat beyond the water and reflects below what is going on above. Electricity is the auxiliary motive power of the Lake, but the batteries are used only when she is submerged. She can carry sufficient gasoline to last her on a much longer voyage than the one she has just completed. She is equipped with three torpedo tubes and In the bow is a diving chamber whence a diver can issue forth into the sea when the boat is beneath the surface, and this will be a valuable adjunct in war time in cable cutting and the laying of mines. When diving the Lake does not descend on an inclined plane, but sinks vertically, being thus possessed of the power with which the imaginative Jules Verne equipped the Nautilus. She can be submerged in a wonderfully short space of time in spite of her size, for with a length of eighty-five feet she is the largest submarine ever built in this country. By an ingenious arrangement the lead keel of the Lake can be detached at any time. Should the vessel fail to rise to the surface for any reason a turn of a wrench will let the five tons of lead on the keel fall off and thus give to the vessel five tons more buoy-

She left Newport News at a quarter past 2 o'clock in the afternoon of June 25 and stopped off Cape Henry to signal Mr. Lake. She got under way again that evening at half past 7 o'clock and did not stop her engines again during the passage except on Wednesday morning, June 27, when off Barnegat, when she shut down for a short time to watch the antics of some other submarines in the form of a school of whales.

Flowers In Place of Crests. One more fad has seized upon girls who have so much pocket money they can afford to spend it on stray fancies, says a correspondent of the New York Press. The new idea is to select a favorite flower and use it in lieu of a crest on stationery and other personal belongings. Miss Mathilde Townsend has selected the violet, and to her chums she indites notes on highly perfumed paper of violet tint with a few petals of the flower on its surface. Miss Harriet Wadsworth is partial to moss rosebuds, and these are seen on her special note paper. Pansies, heartsease, heliotrope, all figure in this new fashion. The fad should be encouraged as a step away from the all too prevstarted a new simple life colony in alent snobbishness and toward democracy, for it certainly is more American to have a simple flower for a crest than to copy the family bearings of some lackey or thief who was ennobled by some complaisant king centuries ago.

FRENCH VS. AMERICAN COLO-NIZATION METHODS.

Some extremely interesting facts are brought out in a report by Consul General Robert P. Skinner, of Marseilles, on French colonization in A!geria, contrasting the policy of France with that of the United States in the bestowal of lands and franchises. Mr. Skinner tells of the accomplishments of France in its colonial domain as illustrated in the colonial exposition which opened in Marseilles in April. This exposition is the first carefully sults of French colonial effort, and it is a refutation in itself of the often expressed conviction that the Latin countries cannot successfully colonize. Wherever the Frenchman has gone within the last forty years he has taken his engineers, he has built high ways for all time, he has classified with patient minuteness the resources of roads, and he has laid down the general lines for the proper development of the bounties of nature.

WHAT THE DOUMA STANDS FOR

Vast. Majority of Russia's Legislature Demand a Freedom Even More Advanced Than That of England and France-Strikingly Democratic Body That Is "the Thought" of the Czar's Empire-Significant Scene When the Douma Was Convened transformation of a great people from despotism to democracy. Before our eyes transpire the beginnings of another French revolution, only this one is not among the volatile Latins, but among the melancholy Slavs. It is given us to behold the coming of liberty. Once more we may learn that she does not move backward, but that, first in one land, then in another, she marches onward. The rule of the people is now the most living factor or, rather, promise in all nations. This England begins to realize, as do France, Germany, even America, Russia has been like an ice locked land for ages-ice locked under absolutism, bureaucracy, repression-but now the sun of freedom shines upon her and the masses begin to melt, to move. There will be avalanches later. A Striking Parallel.

and Russia most of all.

The parallel between the Russian and French revolution is one of the most striking things in modern history. It is as though the leaders of the douma were consciously modeling their course after that taken by the French national convention. Both bodies had the same sort of an insolent, vicious, grafting aristocracy and the same manner of a weak, well intentioned, vacillating monarch with whom to deal. Both represented the same kind of a sullen, desperate constituency, hardened and brutalized through centuries of misrule; both met in May; both named its radical group "The Mountain." and both had a similar trinity of watchwords-the cry of

"Liberty, Fraternity, Equality" in

N our own day we are seeing the the great hall of the Winter palace were banked the nobles, on the other the representatives of the people. It was the old order and the new. The one was dazzling in jewels, uniforms. medals, sashes and gold lace. 'The other was clothed in the plain and often coarse dress of the citizen and peasant. Formalism and caste were on the one hand, simplicity and democracy on the other. "Let those wear clothes who need them," said Thomas Paine, and the aristocratic party certainly needed all its finery, for inwardly it was foul and unkempt, while the great peasant and citizen body did not require the outward trappings, for they were clothed with justice and the rights of man, while inwardly they were fair and

The Old Order and the New.

Between the two bodies was a wide space, a veritable gulf, through which walked the czar with his empress, grand dukes and other royalties. Small and insignificant he looked, and his hand trembled. He kissed the representative of the church and heard the chanting of the priests amid their icons. Then be strode, with an assumed dignity several sizes too large for him, up to his throne, and from that seeming eminence, that has sunk much in height of late, he delivered his speech, which said nothing except by its omissions. At its close the nobles broke into loud cheers, but the representatives of the people remained impassive and still. It was an eloquent silence, even more eloquent than the things the speech did not say.

The initial work, which is the real and important work in all revolutions. is accomplished in peace. Afterward the reactionary elements attempt a counter revolution, and it is that which brings bloodshed. Signs are already to be seen in Russia of such a denouement. The actual revolution, that in the thought of the nation, was accomplished when the Constitutional Democrats and other advanced elements captured practically every seat in the douma. It is now that the bureaucrats and aristocrats, tawdry, contemptuous, licentious, befouled by graft, their hearts black with hatred of the people and their hands red with Jewish masmacres, seek to influence the spineless czar and to create turmoil and confusion that they may retain their ancient privileges. to become historic, one of the mileposts in the march of man. There two armies glare at each other across a chasm the old and the spirit of the new.

If the speech from the throne said nothing, the answer to that speech said much. Its language was plain; there was no misunderstanding its meaning. It did not indulge in empty phrases about divine right, but it bad many meaty phrases about human right. It was not delivered with dress parade and pomp, nor in the presence of a large bunch of titled and gilded nobodies. Rather was it conveyed to the royal presence in so unceremonious a fashion that at first Nicholas refused to receive it. His sacred hands could not take it direct. It must pass through the hands of his ministers. It is won-Berful the way those who lack the substance stickle for the form. That answer made some very definite demands:

First.—General amnesty for political prisouers. Second.-Abolition of the death pen-

Third.-Suspension of martial law and of all exceptional laws.

Fourth.-Full civil liberty. Fifth.-Abolition of the council of empire, an upper house somewhat worse than our senate.

Sixth.-Revision of the fundamental law, which was promulgated to limit the domma and protect the autocracy. Seventh.-Make the ministers respontible to the donma.

Eighth.-Right of the douma to question the ministers in public.

Ninth.-Forced expropriation of land from the nobles so that it may pass into the hands of those who till it. Tenth.-Guarantee of the rights of Music of Liberty.

Throughout the document bristles with thrusts at the bureaucracy, the grafters and the petty despots who stand between the czar and the people. These must go. If the czar stands with them possibly he may go with the rest. The answer does not say this, but there are meanings in it not put baldly in words. Besides, when a people starts moving it sometimes goes further than at first intended. When that great inert mass of the Slav empire George Jacob Holyoake, recently died gets momentum it might be as well for in his eighty-ninth year. He was the little Nicholas to stand out of the way. He might find it of advantage carefully to read the lives of Charles Stuart and Louis Capet. A perusal of the deaths of these two gentlemen might also be instructive. The world has advanced, it is true, since those events took place, but Russia is still somewhat primitive, and the folks there have elemental passions. In times of revolution a man is only a man, and blue blood is as liable to flow as any other sort. Russia has got the music of liberty in her heart now, and she will march to it. She has seen the vision of a free state, and she is bound for it.

With all that has been said against the more radical of the Russian revolutionaries one thing should not be forgotten - that if it had not been for | Manila. them the douma in all probability would never have been called. The groups struck terror to the heart of of his life has been to give more than the bureaucracy, and to allay the popular unrest the ezar finally consented to call a national consultative assembly that would have no real power. Now that he has it, he wants to let go. The plight of the American president who had "congress on his hands" is not a circumstance to that of Nich- rino olas. The douma may not be able to do anything, but its very presence gives a sense of solidarity to the people and unifies them for their struggle with the privileged classes. Moreover, it gives a definite and authoritative statement of their demands. It makes them an organic entity rather than a to this country in 1896.

Influence of the Douma.

The first surprise that came, and it tions had been made on this head, and you'll have Spooner." Self styled superior persons always affect to distrust the people, forgetting that they themselves are a part of the people. Evils in government come, not He played a prominent part in the revfrom trusting the masses, but from self olution of 1848 at Palermo and went seeking men, from those who want to through the whole campaign under Garuse public place for private ends and | ibaldi. In more recent years he was most of all from those who corruptly obtain special privileges not granted to Drury Lane theater as an operatic their fellows. It is these things that singer. are in contravention to democratic institutions which are at fault, not the democratic institutions themselves. No pure appeal to the people was ever disand over again throughout modern history. It was proved once more in the case of the Russian peasantry. Their experience in the mir, or village assembly, and in the zemstvo, or assembly of the province, had schooled them for self government. With a practically unanimous voice throughout the great empire they declared for a constitutional democracy. Only a small handful of conservatives were elected to the douma, and even they have not the temerity to stand with the bureaueracy. The vast majority of the body stand for a freedom even farther advanced than that of England and France, and the attitude of the czar is ply is likely to run short inside of a driving them to yet more radical century. grounds. A little more hesitancy on the part of Nicholas will make of the douma a thoroughly revolutionary body, and as goes the douma so goes the empire.

To paraphrase an old saw, "Whom room. the gods would destroy they first strike blind." Russia's reactionaries certainly are blind. They do not seem to comprehend what it all means. Either they have not read history or are incapable of understanding it. They will never know till the storm breaks. Then it will be too late. Indeed it is already too late. One man does understand. That man is Witte. He it was that advised the calling of the douma. He saw the yawning chasm and sought to bridge

it. Instead he fell into its depths. The douma is the most democratic body in the world. The peasant is there, the man who has been in prison, the victim with the knout marks on his back, the workman, the revolutionary professor, even the socialistic prince, all are in the douma. One hundred and forty nationalities are represented. All sorts of costumes are seen, from the long blouse of the moujik to the business suit of the townsman. But with all their variations of dress and class a spirit of close brotherhood unites them. They are one in the dream of the new order. M. Sergius Andrejevitch Mouromt seff, who is the president of the douma, is a member of a noble St. Petersburg family. He was born in 1850 and was educated at Moscow university, being graduated from the law department. There is real eloquence in this "thought" body-rough, elemental eloquence, but singularly stirring. All language is eloquent that is in earnest and that deals with actualities.

Here is to the revolution that is to make a free Russia! The clock of time is striking another hour for liberty. May its chimes be heard in all lands and awaken all peoples. Long enough has selfishness ruled the world. The day of the grafter and despot is ending. The day of brotherhood is here and the era of the rights of man. J. A. EDGERTON.

SHAVE WITH HOT STEEL.

An Old Cutter's Advice to Men Use a Razor.

"Whenever I hone a razor," said an old English cutler, "I always give some advice with it, free, gratis, and I take great satisfaction in knowing that I Dr. Francis P. Kinnicut of New York have made shaving easier and more has been elected president of the Assocomfortable for more than 10,000 men. Almost every barber will tell you how to strop a razor, but it takes a cutler to appears in the scuate without a white tell you how to care for your strop and vest and is known as the "white vested how to get the best work out of your senator." He has these gurments in blade.

"A swing strop, canvass on one side and horse hide on the other, is the best. Always hold it taut and draw the razor lightly, but swiftly, from heel to point. If you let the strop sag you will put a round edge on your blade. Don't forget to cover your strop or put it away in a drawer after using. If it hangs in a bathroom near a window the dust and grime get into it and soon take the edge from your razor. Whether you keep the strop covered or whether you don't, rub your open hand over the two surfaces to free it from dust.

"But what I consider my most valuable advice is how to do away with shaving paper entirely and at the same time improve the cutting quality of the razor's edge. Nine men out of ten shave themselves in a room where there is running hot water. Now, the way to get a most gratifying result is remain on the face half a minute before you begin to shave. If you have time wash it off, for with it will come the grit and dirt that you have loosened up in the pores of the skin, and then apply a second coar. It will be as soft, smooth and clean as new velvet. "Now turn on the hot water faucet and let it run. Hold the razor under the stream until it is heated. Then take a slanting, or diagonal, stroke, like a farmer does with a scythe, not a square pull, and you will be amazed to find how beautifully and easily the hot blade cuts the beard.

"When it is filled with lather hold it under the running hot water instead of using shaving paper. This will wash off the lather and at the same time heat the blade again. Don't be afraid of taking out the temper. That would be impossible if you put the razor in a kettle and boiled it. Try the hot blade and you'll never shave with the cold steel again."-New York World.

POISONS IN TOBACCO.

Tobacco destroys the taste, smell and digestion.

Tobacco kills mental, moral and physical vigor. Tobacco paralyzes the mucous membranes and glands. Tobacco's most dangerous poison, nicotine, is without antidote. Tobacco contains prussic acid, ammonia, carbonic oxide and nicotine. Tobacco contains stronger poisons than opium, alcohol, absinth or chloral.

A single leaf of tobacco or a single cigar contains enough of this poison to kill a man if applied properly.

Nicotine is the most deadly poison grown to the pharmacopoea. A single drop or a grain will kill a large animal. Nicotine resembles prussic acid in appearance, effects and activity. Nicotine's victims die in violent convulsions.-New York American.

Pike's Peak In Summer.

The first part of the road to Pike's peak is through a picturesque ravine with a beautiful mountain torrent roaring and leaping through it. This ravine is a popular walk, and one sees many climbers who shoot their kodaks as the train passes, until one knows exactly how it feels to be a celebrity. As one goes on the climbers become gradually fewer, and after three or four miles they are left behind. Suddenly a new turn in the road shows that the first foothills have been surmounted and that we are climbing the vast bare side of the peak itself. The track stretches toboggan-like far ahead. Great views unfeld. One looks down on lonely wooded valleys, where blue lakes glisten, on the tops of the mountains and over mountains to the plain that stretches away like the sea. It has grown cold, and patches of snow begin to appear. The date is Aug. 1 but in the snow keaps on the summit we shall soon be snowballing one another.-Four Track News.

Alabama's State Flag.

Over the historic capitol at Montgomery waves not the national flag, eyelets are the favored effects for but the Alabama flag, and not one Alabamian in a thousand would recognize it if he saw it elsewhere than on the capitol. The flag in question has no history woven into it, for it was not adopted until 1895. It presents a St. Audrew's cross in crimson on a white field. Such a cross is shaped like a letter X, and the books suggest that the apostle Andrew died on a cross of that design. Few if any other states indulge in flags of their own. A flag is the symbol of sovereignty, and state sovereignty is limited by the federal constitution. When we were a part of Georgia we granted to the federal government the executive power of punishing treason, and if any one becomes a traitor to the Alabama flag we might have to call in the federal government in order to punish him.-Birmingham Age-Herald.

The Land of BIG CROPS and PROSPERITY.

Are you making as much off your farm as you ought? No doubt you are making all you can. The trouble is the land costs too much. It takes too much money to buy a big farm, and so you are trying to make a living on a small farm, or perhaps you are renting one and paying a good share of what you raise, in rent. Wouldn't it be better to go where the price of good land is so little that you can own a big farm-where every acre of the ground is working for you and all you raise is paying you good profits? There are thousands of acres of fertile land in the Southwest along the ### line of the Cotton Belt Route that can be bought for from $3 to $10 an acre. This land is increasing in value each year.

See the Southwest at Small Cost. A trip to the Southwest would convince you that your best interests lay in settling there. The trip can be made at very little expense, On the first and third Tuesdays of each mouth you can purchase a round trip ticket to any point in the Southwest on or via the Colton Belt Route at very low rates. Secret of Tenching the Little Animais to Perform Tricks.

"The secret of training mice to run np sticks and perform in various ways is very simple," said a showman. "Worry 'em.

"Suppose you want a mouse to climb a stick, pick up a little flag that you have put there and bring it down. You take the mouse when he's hungry to begin with, you tie a grain or two of oats to the flag, and you put the mouse at the foot of the stick. He won't go up, of course.

"Well, when he turns around to run away you set him back again, with his nose to the stick. If he runs away fifty times set him back fifty-one times. That worries him. Hold him up a litthe; give him a start.

"He soon sees what you want, and up he goes. Where he tinds the outs he is suisped and comes down to eat them. Next time he will do it with half the trouble, and after awhile he will ran up and get the flag whenever you got him at the foot of the stick.

"in a short time he will take up anything you wish, whether it is a flag or -Exchange.

The Birds and the Wires.

Many young persons wonder why birds can with perfect safety perch on live electric wires, to merely touch which would give a man a fatal shock. But these persons do not stop to think of the different conditions under which the contact is made.

Of course you know that no shock is felt when the body is insulated. There must be contact with the ground, either directly or by means of some medium, so as to make a circuit. It is the passage of the current through the body and into the ground that causes the shock.

But there cannot be a circult when the body is in contact with the wire and with nothing else, and therefore birds may perch on live wires without the slightest electric sensation. Human beings might do the same thingnot quite so conveniently as the birds, but with equal safety, so far as the electricity is concerned.

Soap Bubble Race.

A soap bubble race makes excellent fun. Lay a long stick on the floor to serve as a goal and provide each player with a fan, which can be made of stiff paper, with which to drive the bubbles from the starting point. At a given signal the bubbles are blown and the fans brought into use. If a bubble bursts before any player has reached the goal the player may return to blow a second one.

to have his way. So, when I want to travel on, he always wants to stay! And when I want to make a stop right past the drive he'll spin,

In the Laundry. All sorts of colored dresses should ' be washed, dried and ironed as speedily as possible. Make a clean suds that is just warm to the hand (hot water will fade colored goods), then throw in to it a large handful of salt to set the color. Wash each garment separately through this suds, then through another warm water to which a little soap and some salt have been added, put through two cold waters, putting into each just enough vinegar to taste. The acid brightens the color. Stiffen with flour starch, hang at once in the shade and when nearly dry iron on the wrong side. When washing delicately colored ginghams, percale and such goods substitute for the salt a tablespoonful of ox gall or a small teaspoonful of the oil of vitriol.

Removing Stains.

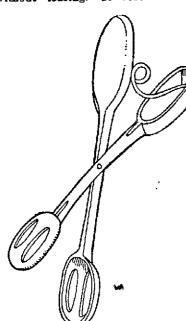

Hot vinegar will remove paint from cotton clothing. Equal parts of ammonia and spirits of turpentine will take paint out of clothing, no matter how dry or hard. Saturate the spot two or three times and wash out in soapsuds. Acid spots in cotton or wool may be removed by touching the spot with spirits of hartshorn. Spots of an alkali nature are removed by moistening with vinegar or tartaric acid. To remove mildew soak in buttermilk or lemon juice and place in the sunshire. To remove grease spots from sflk, wool, paper or wood cover the spot with powdered chalk or magnesia, then brown paper and cover with a hot iron, not hot enough to burn. Let it stand until cool. Repeat if necessary.

Care of Cane Seated Chairs. Cane chair seats that have become loosened should be restored to their former elastic condition in this way: Turn the chair over and on the wrong side of the cane scrub the seat thoroughly with a lather of hot soft soap and water, to which has been added a tablespoonful of vinegar in the proportion of a pint of hot soapy water to the above quantity of vinegar. When the seat has been thoroughly saturated dry it with a soft cloth and leave the chair in a draft or out of doors in the sunshine. When the chair is perfectly dry it will look as well as if it had been newly caned.

A Laundry Convenience.

Handling boiling clothes with an ordinary pole was not considered an up to date method by an Iowa inventor. He therefore evolved the apparatus shown here, a pair of forceps so shaped as to firmly and positively grip the clothes so that they can be handled without tearing. It resembles very

These spoons are hollowed out to form a recess, the back being slotted, which reduces the weight and also affords a ürm grip. Between the handles is a spring. It is the intention of the inventor to manufacture these forceps of aluminlum.

The Grensy Sink.

Unless frequently flushed with a powerful solvent to remove the grease the kitchen sink will clog. A strong solution of washing soda made with boiling water is most effectual and should be used very hot immediately following a thorough cleaning with warm soapsuds. Prepare a sufficient quantity that the drainpipe also may be thoroughly flushed.

A Reilef For Headache. In the case of an ulcerated tooth do not put the hot water bag against the Chutney Sauce.

Here is an old recipe for chutney sauce: Chop separately seventeen large tomatoes, seventeen sour apples, eight onions, two green peppers, two ripe peppers, a pound of seeded raisins, a cupful of sugar and three tablespoonfuls of salt. Mix them together, add a quart of vinegar and cook for an hour and a half.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE THE FOURTH OF JULY RISK. | Safer and Saner Celebration of the Day Advocated. In the production of ear splitting noise on July 4 we approach the achievements of savages in their beatings of tomtoms as the expression of their pleasurable excitement, says a correspondent of the Independent. This of itself would not be so very bad if we do not consider the sick and the nervous, to whom quiet is often a priceless jewel. Unfortunately, however, mere noise is not all. The fire dan...je and mortality directly traceable to the popular custom now prevailing of celebrating the Fourth of July has in recent years grown largely. and many persons are annually killed, others are injured, and large losses result because of fires due to the "fireworks" method of celebrating American independence.

When it appears, from statistics gathered by the Chicago Tribune, that over fifty persons were killed and more than 3,100 were injured as the result of last year's celebration of the glorious Fourth, notwithstanding the constant cheapening of human life, it really seems as if it was about time to call a halt, even if the property loss of over $250,000 be entirely disregarded. Last year Wisconsin enacted a law prohibiting the sale and use of giant firecrackers, which was a manifestation of the trend of public opinion against the time honored method of celebrating and in favor of an observance of the day that is "safer and saner." Wisconsin's example has been followed this year by the state of Iowa, and in that state it will henceforth be a misdemeanor punishable by imprisonment or fine to fire off revolvers, toy guns or firecrackers on the Fourth of July. The protest of the Iowa youth against this law will find as a foil thereto the approval of the fire insurance interests, which have millions of dollars at stake in that common wealth.

The old time celebration of July 4 is trembling on the brink of discontinuance. When the examples of Wisconsin and Iowa have been followed in the other states of the Union and it is possible to enjoy a quiet Independence day it will be a continual source of wonder why we did not sooner come to abolishing the barbarous method of celebration that has too long prevailed. The passing of the old time Fourth of July is coming. It may not pass as quickly as did the catching of woives alive with his hands, as proposed by John Abernathy, United States marshal of Guthrie, Okla., as a Fourth of July celebration, which was interdicted by President Roosevelt, but it will pass. It ought to pass.

One of Toole's Practical Jokes. The late J. L. Toole, the veteran English comedian, was a great practical joher, arra the New York Globe. One of the stories told of him is to the effect that one evening in London in the workman's costume which he had been wearing on the stage be walked to the west end mansion of a certain pompous individual for whom he had no great liking. The footman opened the door, and to his rather impertinent into see the master of the house. "He's have sent him away"quiry Mr. Toole replied that he wanted | out," said the footman. "Then tell him when he comes in," said Toole, "that his brother from the workhouse called to see him." The surprise of the footman may be imagined, and the legend quickly circulated downstairs and thence throughout the city.

Costly Piano For Mrs. Longworth. A Cincinnati firm is making for Mrs. Longworth, bride of Congressman Nicholas Longworth, a gold trimmed piano that will cost the congressman $10,000, says a Cincinnati special dispatch to the Washington Post. He ordered the instrument for his young wife several months ago. It is to be ready for shipment in August, so that it can be installed in the Washington residence of the couple before their return from Europe. The instrument is said to be perfect in tone and other qualities that make a superior piano. The case is beautifully inlaid with native bard woods and is ornamented with gold from caster to top cover. The latter feature of the decoration cost one-fourth of the purchase price.

The second player answers, "Yes, they smell so sweet," and this answer belongs to the first player. The second player now asks his neighbor a question, taking care to remember the answer, as it will belong to him. Perhaps he has asked his neighbor, "Are you fond of potatoes?" And the answer may have been, "Yes, when they are fried."

So the second player has now a question and an answer belonging to him which he must remember.

The game goes on until every one has been asked a question and given an answer, and each player must be sure to bear in mind that it is the question he is asked and the answer his neighbor gives which belong to him. At the end of the game each player

Sonsa's Band. One child is chosen to represent Sonsa. He assigns to each player the name of a different musical instrument, names some familiar air and waves his baton while they hum the air and play on their imaginary instruments. All meanwhile murch in place. When Sousa lowers his baton to his side all stop immediately. Failure to do so causes the offenders to be removed from the band. When there are but few left they march about the room, Sousa in front and sometimes walking backward. He does not stop advancing when he lowers his baton, and the difficulty in keeping close watch of his movements while advancing soon causes others to drop out of the line. The last one left in line becomes Sousa next time. If the last few performers are equally matched,

Palinurus, the Pilot. The original Palinurus was the pilot of Æneas, the hero of Virgil's "Æneid," during his sea wanderings. Virgil said of him that in storm or calm weather he "ever held his rudder true." This spell, fell asleep at his post, and falling downward into the sea was drown ed. In literature his name has been applied to any one who fills the office of a pilot or acts as a guide in troubled times, as the chief minister of a ruler This use of the word has no reference to the unfortunate fate of Palinurus, but to his duty as a helmsman.

Two Perplexing Words. Do you ever get bothered about the use of the two similar words "continual" and "continuous?" If not you are fortunate, for they are a source of perplexity to many persons. The difference is this: Continual signifies something that is constantly recurring or is constantly renewed after interrup- the speech and the final words are detions; continuous signifies something that is uninterrupted, that has no intermission. We speak of continual showers, meaning many showers, one after the other, but of a continuous rain, of a continuous effort, etc.

One of the sweetest little baby beds imaginable was made entirely by the newcomer's grandmother. First she took a good sized clothes basket made of the soft wide splints, but with firm edges. Some Unfortunate Mannerisms.

What old fashioned folk called "tricks" of speech or manner are deplorably easy to assume and extremely difficult to break off. Several to which girls are more or less prone are these: Repetition of a sentence or the point of a story, telling it over again almost in the same breath; the usage of "you know" or "don't you know" for emphasis and beginning a laugh with such haste that it entangles itself in livered in a giggle. All these and similar mannerisms may be more readily dropped in youth than later in life, and every girl would be wise to watch herself lest she fall into them or their

STANDARDS OF LENGTH.

Metric Bars Preserved In Vaults at Washington.

The standards of length of the United States are two meter bars, which are kept in the custody of the national bureau of standards at Washington and preserved most carefully in its strong vault, says Scientific American. These standards are exact copies of the international prototype meter and were constructed after years of investigation and labor by the international bureau of weights and measures, being delivered to the United States government ly afterward another woman extols the in 1890. Three years later the internaidentical article as having improved tional meter as thus represented was adopted as the fundamental standard Many times it is the method rather of length of the nation by executive will rub in the cream recommended, United States outside of scientific are defined in terms of the meter, one yard being equal to 3600-3937 meter. These standard meters are of X section, a form now employed for all accurate standards, and are made of platinum-iridium alloy. It is of course essential that they should be preserved with the utmost care, and consequently they are only removed from the vault for use in making secondary standards or for equally important investigations.

As accuracy in the measurement of linear distances underlies all mechanical as well as scientific work, the importance of preserving and maintaining proper standards and attending to the accuracy of the measures in use can readily be appreciated, and the bureau is frequently consulted in such matters by various manufacturers.
